Veedhi Bhajanai

Residents of Olympia Jayanthi Residences are embracing the rich cultural heritage of Margazhi by organising a traditional 'Veedhi Bhajanai' in their locality. This age-old practice involves groups of devotees singing Thiruppavai, Thiruvempaavai and Thirupalliezhuchi while walking through the streets.

The sacred month of Margazhi is dedicated to Andal, the revered saint-poetess who composed Thiruppavai in devotion to Lord Krishna. Similarly, Thiruvempaavai, composed by Saint Manickavasagar, is an ode to Lord Shiva, while Thirupalliezhuchi, composed by saint Manikavasagar, are hymns sung to wake up Lord Ranganathar of Srirangam. The 'Veedhi Bhajanai' serves as a beautiful way to honour the divine verses and spread the spirit of devotion in the community.

▲ At the inauguration of the 'OhMargazhi' festival on Dec.16, renowned Carnatic vocalist Bombay Jayashri Ramnath was felicitated with the 'Lasya Choodamani Award'. This prestigious recognition celebrates her exceptional and lifelong contributions to Carnatic music, as well as her unwavering commitment to the higher ideals of art and life.

Tribute >

M. Radhakrishnan, 90, passed away on Dec.25. He was a long-time resident of Indira Nagar.

Following his retirement from BHEL, he stayed active in several cultural, religious and social organisations. An avid Carnatic music lover, he was a Committee Member of Hamsadhwani for more than 20 years and was instrumental in organising its NRI Music Festival for many years.

A notable idea he executed flawlessly, was to encourage guests at his family's functions to donate to charitable organisations in lieu of gifts - including Adyar Cancer Institute, Venkatachalapati Trust in his birthplace, and for his 90th birthday in 2024, The Sanskrit College of Madras. His enthusiasm and energy made him a friend to everyone he met across generations, say his family.

His family can be contacted at 95003 25672.

From Hamsadhwani:

M. Radhakrishnan, who served the Hamsadhwani committee with dedication and was a long-time resident of Indira Nagar passed away on Dec.25. An ardent rasika he was active and attended music programmes in various parts of the city with enthusiasm.

As a rasika he would hop across different venues, listen to kutchcheris and appreciate their presentations unhesitatingly. Despite his age Radhakrishnan would keep himself busy attending programmes, watching cricket and visiting temples and was a devotee of Kanchi and Sringeri Acharyas.

He will be remembered by all for the cheer and positivity. He made friends with several walkers in the Indira Nagar park. A true connoisseur and patron of arts, the Hamsadhwani team will miss RK (as he was fondly called).

On the same evening, Hamsadhwani paid homage and tributes to Radhakrishnan before the commencement of the devotional music presentation, by Staff & Students of Sri Satya Sai University for Human excellence and offered our condolences to the bereaved family.

K. Ganesh, 90, passed away on Dec.20. He was a resident of Gandhi Nagar, Adyar.

K. Ganesh was an ex-Customs employee and a retired executive of Indian Oil. He was an extremely benevolent, cheerful and kind-hearted person who lived a life of dharmic discipline, says his family. He was very well known amongst the erstwhile and senior visitors of Marundeeshwarar temple, Thiruvannamur where he spent many memorable moments in his younger days

He is survived by his wife Saraswathy Ganesh and sons Shivram and Hariharan and their families. The family can be reached at 98840 82913, 98840 44637.

Union Culture Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat emphasises the role of culture in uniting India

The Union Culture Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat addressed the 71st Annual Art Festival of the Kalakshetra Foundation, on Dec.23, emphasising the unifying power of culture in a diverse country like India. In his speech, Shekhawat described culture as the "life and blood" of society, asserting that it plays a key role in maintaining national unity.

Shekhawat paid tribute to legendary artists, including Zakir Hussain, for their lifelong dedication to the arts. He also highlighted the ongoing cultural resurgence in India, which he said blends traditional values with modern influences.

The Minister noted that under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the government has implemented measures to revitalize traditional arts and provide support to artists across the nation. 'Vikas and Virasat' were central to his message, emphasising the importance of preserving cultural traditions while fostering progress.

In addition, Shekhawat recognised the contributions of Rukmini Devi Arundale to the arts, particularly Bharatanatyam. He stated that her work in the field surpassed the offerings of any centre of excellence, and acknowledged her founding of the Kalakshetra Foundation 71 years ago, which continues to play a vital role in nurturing Indian classical arts.

As part of the event, Minister Shekhawat inaugurated a special exhibition celebrating the legacy of Indian classical arts. Padma Vibhushan awardee Vyjayanthimala Bali, performed a Bhava Abhinayam

During the event, Shekhawat honoured Vyjayanthimala Bali for her outstanding contributions to classical dance and Indian cinema.

Traffic hazard

■ There is a big ditch at the junction of 1st Avenue and 2nd Main Road Indra Nagar (see picture). This poses grave danger for vehicles turning right into 1st Main Road from 1st Avenue. This route is now a major thoroughfare after the closure of the water tank junction for CMRL work.

On Dec.26, a car got stuck here and had to be rescued by the herculean efforts of several passersby. I request the authorities to fill the ditch to avoid further mishaps.

- V. Harihara Subramanian, Indira Nagar.

4. Vigilance with Children: Parents must closely monitor their children's daily routines, ensure safe commutes, and avoid leaving infants unattended.

5. Sensitisation and Awareness: Educating boys from a young age and training community workers, police, and officials to empathise with victims is crucial.

The crimes against women—from Nirbhaya in 2012 to the tragic case at Anna University on Dec.23—highlight the urgent need for societal reform. Laws alone are not enough; their enforcement and a collective commitment to women's safety are imperative. Empowered women and sensitised men are the cornerstones of a safer society.

- Deepak Bhatia, Gandhi Nagar.

No bus shelters on S.P.Road

■ Letter as submitted to MLA Maulana Aasan Moulana, by a collective of residents and commuters:

At the outset, we, the residents, wish to convey our deep appreciation for the nice and convenient bus shelters you have constructed at various bus stops in our locality.

1. There are two bus stops near the bus terminus on Sardar Patel Road, Adyar, (for buses going towards Madhya Kailash) - one near Kalyan Jewelers and one near the junction of 2nd Main Road K.B.Nagar - and both have no shelters. Bus commuters especially senior citizens, sick people, and those with children are therefore forced to stand under the sun and rain waiting to catch their bus. We request you to please provide bus shelters for these two bus stops. These two bus stops also often confuse bus commuters new to the locality, as they do not know which bus stop the bus to their destination would stop. And can these two bus stops be combined into one single bus stop?

2. The bus stop near TNSC Bank (opposite Adyar bakery) was recently shifted close to the Bata showroom near the LB road-S.P road signal and the bus shelter also was shifted. However, buses cannot stop at this new location, because buses towards L.B Road cannot stop near the signal and also make a turn to the right across the road with the heavy traffic. Therefore buses continue to stop at the previous bus stop location near TNSC bank, but the commuters now have no shelter.

Can this bus-stop be shifted inside the Adyar Bus Terminus that has huge unused space? The buses stopping at the bus-stop will also not obstruct the traffic in the Sardar Patel Road.

- Bus Commuters and Residents.

Who is going to pay attention to safety?

■ The picture says it all - in front of a beautiful new apartment complex in Sastri Nagar 1st Cross Street. TANGEDCO should perhaps take the initiative to get the branches pruned before a disaster strikes.

The tree is within the property and is likely that someone untrained hired might prune the branch at great risk and peril of getting electrocuted if not done with proper shutdown of power supply in a coordinated manner.

I have seen, coincidentally on Dec.23, a flash-over of a tree branch hitting a transformer in front of an apartment (due to a bird perching on the slender branch probably) on 8th Cross Street too, nearby, where it meets 9th Cross Street.

I am sure a routine preventive action is called for.

- N. V. Chandrasekharan, Sastri Nagar.

Thursday Ladies Club hosts sports event for underprivileged children

The Thursday Ladies Club of Besant Nagar organised a joyous sports event for underprivileged children on Dec.21. The event, designed to promote community spirit and provide a memorable experience for the children, was divided into three categories: Subjuniors, Juniors, and Seniors.

The children participated in various exciting games, including talent shows, memory games, running races, musical chairs, and the classic lemon spoon race.

All participants were given utility prizes and snacks to ensure everyone had a fun and fulfilling time.

In addition, the winners in each game category received 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place prizes and consolation prizes for those who showed great effort. The event brought immense joy to the children and the Thursday Ladies Club members, who enjoyed spending quality time with the kids. It was a heartwarming celebration of community, joy, and the upcoming New Year.

Snapshots & Stories

COW AND CONCERT: Music is a unifying factor cutting across barriers, and animals too are mesmerised, as seen in this photograph at Thiruvannamiyur beach, Chennai. The cow pays rapt attention to the programme as sun rises over the horizon. Of course, beach goers did gather to appreciate the performers.

Bridging tradition and technology to revive the ancient art of Kolam

By R.Swathi

Before the internet era, come Margazhi and one could find umpteen Kolam books on every corner of the street. Households got ready to depict their themes through 'pulli' kolams, 'sikku' kolams, traditional kolams or just free hand.

In an era when those books have vanished and kolam has gained the status of street art, Besant Nagar resident Dr.V.Krishnamoorthy and his sister Leela Venkatraman have created an app (by Learnfun Systems) that anyone can install and generate a variety of customised kolams. "Kolam can be simple as well as very complex. Through the app, we want to reach out not only to the beginners, but amateurs alike," explains Krishnamoorthy.

Combining tradition with cutting-edge technology, this ambitious project brings the beauty and mathematical intricacies of Kolam to a global audience through educational tools, digital platforms, and interactive experiences. "Kolam isn't just art; it's a combination of symmetry, mathematical precision, and cultural heritage. Our project presents Kolam as an innovative tool for scientific thinking among the youth," says Dr. Krishnamoorthy.

The app, available in both Windows and Apple is divided into 10 parts, each focusing on a unique aspect of the art:

❖ Books and E-books: Detailed books exploring Kolam's history, themes, and applications, including 'Kolam: A Comprehensive Guide.'

❖ Interactive Software: Programs for creating complex Kolams in various designs and dimensions, including features like 3D effects, rotational symmetry, and integration with other media for printing on fabric and paper. Kolams of straight dots, cross dots and circular dots can be created. Kolam size can be up to 50 x 50 dots with 3 kinds of 'suzhi's'

❖ Children's Coloring Books: Engaging resources for young learners, promoting creativity through Kolam patterns.

❖ Games and Puzzles: Interactive educational games designed to stimulate critical thinking and coordination skills, with challenges like 'Odd Man Out' and 'Make Me Symmetric'.

❖ Daily Kolam Software: A curated tool showcasing unique Kolam patterns daily.

One of the project's highlights is its advanced Kolam-generating software, which allows users to design patterns that would be impossible to create manually. From printing Kolams on saris and T-shirts to integrating complex 3D effects, the software unleashes endless possibilities for art and design enthusiasts.

All software and e-books are available for free download in Tamil and English, making the project accessible to students and enthusiasts worldwide. Updates are released every three months to ensure users enjoy new features regularly.

Leela Venkatraman, with her 75 years of Kolam expertise has designed iconic Kolams in temples across Tamil Nadu, including the famous one lakh dots Kolam at Madurai's Meenakshi Amman Temple. Dr.Krishnamoorthy is a former professor from Anna University with over 38 years of experience in computer science and a passion for promoting Tamil culture through technology.

To download the App and for more details, visit www.learnfunsystems.com or contact Dr. Krishnamoorthy at prof.vkrish@gmail.com.

Computer Kolam Competition 2024

Learnfun Systems has announced the Computer Kolam Competition 2024 to coincide with the Tamil month of Margazhi. The contest stands apart from traditional Kolam drawing as participants are required to design their Kolams using the free software package provided by Learnfun Systems. The software unlocks innovative ways to create intricate patterns, challenging participants' imagination and creativity.

The competition is open to all, with no entry fee. First Prize: Rs.5,000, and many other prizes to be won. Interested participants can download the software and explore its features. Detailed instructions and submission guidelines are available at learnfunsystems.com.

Snakes rescued in Kotturpuram

Two young snakes, including a cobra, were recently found in the stormwater drains of Kotturpuram following the heavy rains. Seeking refuge, the snakes entered residential areas, prompting the DP Nagar Residents Association of Dandayuthapani Nagar, Kotturpuram, to take swift action. Understanding the need for safety for both residents and the snakes, the association organised an awareness session in collaboration with the Irula Cooperative Society, Chengalpattu and the Forest Department. This initiative aimed to eradicate the fear of snakes among residents and ensure no harm came to either humans or the reptiles.

"The area has a significant snake population, and rains often bring them out. Many senior citizens and children frequent the park, which is also a common shelter for snakes," said Mahendra Kumar, President of the association. He explained that the Irula Cooperative Society safely captured the snakes and released them into the Reserved Forest.

The session educated residents on coexisting with snakes, identifying their behaviour, and taking precautions without causing harm. Kumar urged other neighbourhood associations to seek similar support to foster safety and awareness. This proactive initiative serves as an excellent example of harmonious coexistence between humans and wildlife. The Irula Cooperative Society can be contacted at 94459 03946, 98415 86516.

Remembering the Tsunami and celebrating R. Venkatesan's ocean insights

December 26 is a day of reflection, as it marks the anniversary of the devastating tsunami that struck coastal regions, causing widespread destruction and loss of life.

The catastrophic event remains etched in our memories, serving as a stark reminder of nature's immense power.

On this day, we also recognise the contributions of Scientist R. Venkatesan, a dedicated scholar and a prominent figure in ocean science. Professor of Practice at Anna University, Former Scientist at NIOT (National Institute of Ocean Technology), and Consultant for UNESCO, R. Venkatesan has made significant strides in understanding and monitoring oceanic changes. He is a resident of Thiruvanniyur.

One of his notable achievements is the establishment of a buoy in the deep sea off the coast, which continuously transmits real-time data regarding changes at the depths of the ocean.

This buoy helps provide critical insights into ocean conditions, which can be vital for tsunami detection and monitoring. His work with the NIOT team has contributed immensely to improving ocean monitoring and preparedness against natural disasters. India Patent Awarded for the invention REAL TIME Tsunami Monitoring System to NIOT for the work of Dr. R.Venkatesan and his team.

On Dec.22, 2024, R. Venkatesan participated in a panel discussion, "Why Study the Ocean? Part 1," hosted by the Science Oversees Experts Panel (TSEP), focusing on the importance of ocean research.

The recorded discussion is available at <https://youtu.be/cy52-ZMn2fU>.

He can be contacted at 94443 99829.
